- Our portfolio of 25⁵ companies is well diversified across fintech verticals and performing well despite a challenging macroeconomic background. Our Top 10 holdings, which represent 78% of portfolio value, are growing revenue at an average of 117%⁶ YoY and are cash generative or have an average of 29⁷ months cash runway.
- As at 31 March 2023 our NAV per share after performance fee stood at 158.9p (an increase of 3.7p vs 31 March 2022). Overall NAV stands at £294.1m and annualised IRR on invested capital since inception is 18.5%.
- We have demonstrated a consistent approach towards valuation of our portfolio with an implied forward revenue multiple of 4.5x on our Top 10 holdings during the period (31 March 2022: 5.7x). We continue to apply pricing discipline in investment processes.
- In the period we received proceeds of £42.8m as a result of the sale of interactive investor to abrdn, delivering an 11.1x MOIC⁸ and 85% IRR. Post period end, we exited Cushon via the acquisition of a majority shareholding by NatWest Group and delivered a return of 2.1x MOIC with proceeds of £22.8m and a 62% IRR.
- The structural opportunity for the fintech sector remains significant irrespective of macroeconomic headwinds, with huge headroom for further disruption in financial services where fintech revenue is forecast to grow 6x to over $1.5tn by 2030.
- We remain a highly selective investor; investing in 0.1% of opportunities assessed (31 March 2022: 0.4%). Since the start of 2022 we have consciously slowed deployment as the valuation environment has continued to rerate. During the period we made two new investments in Israeli payments company Kipp and German cyber insurance provider Baobab.

The market has adjusted to rising interest rates following a period of strong expansion that was supported by the low cost of capital

Key listed index performance January 2019 – May 2023

Period in review

- Low interest rates and government stimulus in the first 3 years supported strong market expansion
- With high demand for digital products and access to low-cost growth capital, listed fintechs grew ahead of the market
- Volatility followed macro shocks: Covid, supply chain disruption, conflict in Ukraine
- Rate rises to curb inflation instigated a market-wide correction, with implications for all participants and the fintech sector particularly affected

Private fintech investment volumes normalised in 2022 with a reduction in the 'mega-rounds' that drove distortion at the later stages in 2021

Financial services remains one of the largest and most profitable sectors of the economy and there is still significant headroom for revenue penetration across all verticals

Having tried and failed to innovate internally, incumbents are key advocates of the fintech ecosystem through direct investment, acquisition and partnership

Outlook

The growth opportunity in fintech is supported by underlying market dynamics and a normalisation in investment activity

- Addressing huge remaining headroom across financial services verticals, fintech revenues are forecast to grow by 6x to over $1.5tn by 2030
- Through the application of technology, fintech companies achieve operational advantages over incumbent providers and continue to grow market share
- Incumbent financial services firms struggle to innovate and have become key advocates of the fintech ecosystem through direct investment, acquisition and partnership
- We remain cautiously optimistic for the continued recovery of financial markets and acceleration of venture investment over the next 12 months

Our portfolio is delivering strong growth and realisations despite challenging macro conditions

- The Top 10 companies in our portfolio are well funded or profitable, with an average runway of 29 months and average YoY growth of 117%³
- abrdn's acquisition of ii delivered a realisation of £42.8m⁴ in May 2022 and NatWest's acquisition of Cushon delivered a realisation of £22.8m post period end
- Our approach to valuation remained consistent and we moderated our pace of deployment compared to FY23
- A stable NAV¹ of £294.1m and IRR² of 18.5% reflects the offsetting of strong growth by valuation multiple compression in listed comparables

Sector specialism and experience are key competitive advantages that leave us well positioned for the period ahead

- We maintained valuation discipline and focus through a period of heightened market activity
- Advantaged access to deal flow and our thesis driven approach continues to drive our differentiation
- As at 30 June 2023 we are well capitalised with a cash position of £50.0m⁵ and no debt
